WELCOME MESSAGE

Dear Colleagues, Dear Friends in Sheet Metal Forming and Modelling, Dear Researchers in Deep Drawing Technology from all over the world!

Approximately three weeks ago the Executive Committee of the International Deep-Drawing Research Group (IDDRG) accepted my proposal to take over the 40th International Deep-Drawing Research Group Conference from June 21st - July 2nd 2021 in Stuttgart, Germany. I feel deeply honoured for having the pleasure with this to invite you to join the 40th IDDRG Conference, which is going to be held as a fully virtual event.

As we are committed to preserving the long history and the high standards of the IDDRG Conference indeed we are grateful for having the opportunity to learn from the experience gained by our Korean colleagues having organised the 39th IDDRG Conference - Virtual. Such new conference styles may feel a little different, but we are quite optimistic to cope successfully with rising challenges in terms of keeping the tradition of direct communication, question and answers on given contributions and keynotes, break out sessions with friends and colleagues as well as enjoying the flair of booths prepared by suppliers, developers and other members of the community.

Following the habits of the IDDRG of connecting the entire sheet metal forming community again in 2021 we are going to do so through a virtual conference platform promising to provide an exciting experience on the one hand and to learn from success in sheet metal forming and deep drawing from other members of the community.

Expecting more than 250 registrations at the upcoming conference venue in June 2021 actually we are working hard on an appropriate concept to provide good availability of contributions and keynotes, to offer you visits to virtual booths of involved and interested suppliers and developers accompanying the course of conference and also to get in touch with you as best as virtual media allows.

For the Sponsors of the IDDRG 2021, the committee in Stuttgart will make best effort to deliver your latest company information, your newest products and services in a more diverse and efficient way to participants home and abroad. It would be highly appreciated if you recognise the importance and value of the annual IDDRG conference and provide sponsorship and cooperation for its successful hosting here in Stuttgart.

With this welcome message we also like to ask you for a contribution to our next conference in 2021. On the website you may find the tentative topics of sessions to be held separately. Please feel free to assign your contribution to one of these tentative sessions or to propose additional. Please find some time within the next weeks and submit your abstract not later than February 14th 2021. Thanks!

We welcome you to join the 40th IDDRG conference in Stuttgart!

OVERVIEW

The IDDRG (International Deep Drawing Research Group) was started in the late 1950's as an organization of national groups devoted to the study of sheet metal forming including forming processes, materials, formability issues, tooling, tribology and many other interesting aspects of sheet metal forming research and industrial practices.

The IDDRG conference is a gathering for the world's leading production specialists and researchers from all over the world for fruitful discussions on challenging technical topics in sheet metal forming technology. The conference is designed to provide a rich environment for knowledge development, discussions and interactions.
